Living With his Neck Dislocated.

The Pittsburg Telegraph says an accident occurred on Monday at Rainey, Clarion county, which proved to be one of the most extraordinary cases ever recorded in the history of surgery or medical jurisprudence.

James Gumpel, a French Canadian employed at Rainey's mill, fell from a trestle about 12 feet to the ground. After recovering from the shock resulting from the fall, he was unable to move his head, and Dr. Edwards, attending physician, discovered that his neck was dislocated and some of the bones broken; but it was evident that the spinal column had not been severed.

The doctor reset and put the fractured neck in position, and set about devising means to put it in place, until the broken bones and contused ligaments attain their normal condition.

To this end a muslin bandage three inches wide was wrapped tightly around the neck, and to it were attached two tugs, one on either side. To these a rope was fastened and run over a pulley fixed to the ceiling of the room.

A bucket was suspended on the other end of the rope, and in it were placed various weights, so that the patient can adjust the contrivance as occasion may require by simply reaching to the bucket and removing or adding one or two weights.

He remains in a sitting posture, and should any slight change of position occur, the tension of the rope will still support the weight of the head.

With these appliances for his support, the unfortunate man will have to remain practically in the same position until the injured parts become united or death ends the case.

The Raleigh, N. C., News says: A. H. Merritt, of Chatham, Chairman of the State Judiciary Committee, at the close of his eloquent speech at the University snapper, gave the following sentiment, which was greeted with great applause: "The common school system and the University; two, but inseparable. Hand-maidens of intelligence and virtue, which bear their welcome blessings alike to the cottage and the palace, and bring the poor to the level of the peer."

As a true friend of education in North Carolina we heartily echo this noble sentiment.

The Boston Economist says the production of gold in 1899 throughout the world amounted to $118,000,000 ($89,000,000 of which was produced in America); of silver, $94,000,000 (of which $76,000,000 was produced in America); total of both, $212,000,000.

The largest production in any one year was in 1853—of gold, $236,000,000; of silver, $49,000,000; total of both, $285,000,000. Since that year the annual product of gold has diminished one-half, and that of silver has nearly doubled.

The great mistake the Irish leaders make in laying out a political campaign is that they do not calculate upon one people of the English people, viz. That they are English before everything else. They will stand much and concede much until their nationality and their national traditions are assailed and then they forget everything else.

The Elko Independent of the 21st has the following: A fire broke out in the barber shop occupied by Richard Richardson—better known as Nigger Dick—at Wells, about 1 o'clock Monday morning, destroying all the business part of the town east from the fire-proof building of E. H. Griswold, embracing about a half of one square and the whole of another.

Dr. Theobald lately exhibited a beetle at a scientific meeting, giving these figures to illustrate its physical strength: Weight of beetle, two grains; weight moved by it, 5 1/2 ounces—1,320 times the weight of the beetle. Neutrality of the Isthmus.

The N. Y. Tribune says a protocol was signed in this city Thursday evening, by United States Commissioner W. H. Trescott and General Dowling, Representative of the Government of the United States at Colombia, which arranged for the enforcement of neutrality of the Isthmus of Panama, according to the treaty of 1846.

The protocol determines the way by which the United States Government shall interfere to guarantee the independence of Colombia and the neutrality of the canal. The condition of such interference is that Colombia must first ask for it, and without such request or demand the United States shall not intervene.

Commander Wyse says: "I think the protocol very satisfactory to the United States, because the conditions, from what I have heard, are intended to give force to the treaty of 1846, and establish a practicable way in which to make it more effective. If any foreign power desires to keep the Isthmus to itself, Colombia can, of course, ask protection from foreign intervention."

Is There Anything New.

When the telephone was invented, the modern world imagined it had something new, but the claim, as in most other instances of discovery, is disputed.

The New York Times has been reviewing the history of the past, and presents us with this information. It says:

The principle of talking machines was known as far back as 1667. In that year Robert Hooke, of England, published a description of a mechanical telephone, by which he transmitted speech a furlong's distance.

Sir Charles Wheatstone in 1819 perfected the use of the wire for carrying the voice. The electric vibrators made by Page, Fremont and others, in 1847, were telephones which responded to the disturbance of a changed circuit by the action of musical reeds.

In 1854, Boursal, a Frenchman, made a pair of telephones which are owned in New York and are very similar to the instruments now in use. There has been scarcely a year from that time to this that has not produced telephones, each an improvement upon its predecessor.

No less than eleven patents have been issued in different countries and there are now six telephone companies in this country alone.

Christian Folly.

A vigorous sermon was preached in New York recently upon "The Folly of Sending Missionaries Abroad."

The minister declared that foreign missions had been a complete failure; that with all the thousands of missionaries sent abroad, and the millions of dollars expended upon them, nothing had been accomplished.

Conversions had been made among the poor and ignorant, but none among the intelligent of any country. Commenting upon this discourse, the Chicago Inter-Ocean remarks: "It is safe to assume that the preacher did not belong to the orthodox church. He was a Universalist; but if he were a heathen his sensible words should have weight."

Missionaries for the most part are a lot of lazarus supported upon the ignorant enthusiasm of rich zealots, whose fancy is tickled with the thought of bringing a barbarous soul to orthodoxy, while they would turn a Christian from their door."

Unclaimed Coin.

A letter to the Hartford Times says: There lies in the Treasury Department to-day $1,400,000 of unclaimed interest on Government bonds. This sum is getting larger every day. This seems strange, but is true.

This vast sum of money, or much of it, can be drawn by simply applying for it by whoever is entitled to it and has the registered bond on which the interest is due and not paid. There are thousands of persons who have bought bonds and, not knowing how to get the interest on them, prefer to lose the same rather than to expose the fact that they have them and actually forget the fact, and it lies in the Treasury vaults waiting for them to apply for it.

Should one of the clerks of the bond division inform a person to whom interest is due of the fact, and the same be discovered, he would be instantly discharged.

Take Care of Themselves.

The question is often asked and discussed in the public prints, "what shall we do with our girls?" Judging from what one sees in every day life it is quite a serious matter, but if all the young ladies were as bright and thoughtful as Miss Violet, daughter of ex-Governor B. Grant Brown of Missouri, they could take care of themselves.

She was in the upper story of a public school at St. Louis, the other day, when the building took fire. While the teachers were subduing the panic and trying to take the children out in safety, the girl stepped to the window, opened it, and jumped down upon the roof of an extension of the building, a distance of eight feet, caught hold of the lightning rod and slid down to the ground.

A Miracle.

An alleged miracle at Calais, Maine, is exciting a good deal of interest in that region. The particulars as related by John Robinson, a man of more than ordinary intelligence are as follows:

"My little girl, eight years old, suffered every hour, night and day, with St. Vitus dance, so that she had to be watched constantly to prevent her falling on the stove or dishes. The physicians attending her said she must be sent to the hospital at Augusta."

I related the case to an old man whom I happened to meet, and told him how badly I felt at sending her away. He said she could be entirely cured in nine days, and that I was a lucky man in having the means to cure in my own home.

He told me to stand my donkey with his head to the south, then sit the child on its back with her face to the east, and then to pass her over the donkey's back toward the west, saying, 'In the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost.' Following his instructions, I did this for nine mornings before breakfast.

On the third morning the child began to improve and the donkey to take the disease. From that time to the end of nine days the child rapidly grew better and the donkey to grow worse, until it died on Monday day after great suffering.

The child is now perfectly restored. The neighbors are witnesses to these facts."

Who this old prophet Elijah or Elisha was the story fails to state. His name should be preserved to posterity, for he must be a greater man of God than those of old. We can see that a command to "go and wash in the river Jordan nine times" might be a healthy hygienic act, to some filthy and dirty wretch; but the object of this new prophetic command to go sit her on a jackass for nine mornings" is not so clearly apparent.

John Robinson must have been a man of "more than ordinary intelligence" to have followed the instructions of an old man whom he happened to see in the road. He must have known the "old man" was an angel or prophet. Now let us have the "old man's" name.

A Cruel Abductor of Boys.

Walker Amos has confessed that he enticed a small boy, named Adolphus Williams, from his home at Indianapolis, and started on foot with him toward Richmond, Ind., a few days ago.

They walked sixteen miles the first day, when the boy's feet became sore. Amos took a rope and made a cat-o'-nine tails, and lashed the boy to make him walk on. He whipped the boy until he nearly fainted. They walked on to Richmond, begging as they went, the boy being forbidden on pain of death to make complaint.

At that place he took another little boy, named Battelle, and started toward Pittsburg, compelling the boys to walk over the frozen roads, and beating them unmercifully whenever they complained.

They had reached Troy, Ohio, when they were overtaken by parties from Richmond, and brought back. Amos says he intended to take the boys to Harrisburg, Pa., to his mother, and have her raise them. He is a light-colored mulatto, very tall and slight.

He says he was a porter in a respectable saloon in Chicago during the winter.

A Whole Town Likely to Sink.

A very singular trouble has overtaken the producers of salt in Cheshire county, England. It seems that for some time past, instead of digging out the salt from the mines, the salt men have allowed large quantities of fresh water to run into the pits, and when it became brine have pumped it out and crystallized it.

This was in one way a dangerous operation, as the ground underneath the town of Norwich was honey-combed with mines, and the water gradually sapped away the foundations. However the process was a slow one, and it would have been years before it produced bad results.

But, a few weeks ago, a tall and heavy chimney fell to the ground with a sufficient jar to crack open a gap in the brook that supplied the mines with water, and into this opening the water flowed until the mines were wholly filled. The fear now is, and it is well founded, that as the water will eat away the salt supports, the whole town will sink, demolishing all the buildings that it contains.

Double Dealing.

The San Francisco Call, says: Certain persons, even in California, who wish to use the Chinese question to advance political and private interests, oppose the ratification of the Chinese treaties. A few Democrats, who profess to favor the labor interests of the State, oppose the ratification of the treaties, yet these persons must know that there can be no trouble with the ratification of these treaties if proper laws be passed by Congress. We realize that the treaties alone will not protect us, but we expect to see both parties in Congress assist in procuring proper legislation. It is certain that the party in Congress which does not favor such legislation will not control the vote of California. Notwithstanding, one or two journals, which assume to be Democratic, are playing with the question in hopes of deceiving the public.

Chaps.

Charns strike the sight, but merit wins the trial.

The richest mine in New Mexico, now worth $3,000,000, was originally sold for $3 in silver, a little gold dust, and an old revolver. [New York Sun.]

Perhaps it was, but there are some mines which cost $2,000,000 and are now not worth more than $3 in silver a little gold dust—a very little—and an old revolver. There seems to be a Providential adjustment in these things. Mining is a great industry.

The Trick that Did Not Win.

F. C. Updike received last Wednesday a letter from his wife and mother who have gone East. They have reached their destination, but had a slow and tedious trip. They were delayed by snow blockades, running off the track, and other accidents and adventures but finally got through safe and sound. It will be remembered that the elder lady had fallen heir to considerable property by the death of a relative, in Jersey City, and that her journey East was chiefly to settle that estate. When she arrived, her astonishment can well be imagined, to find that some distant relative had gone into court, declared that this Mrs. Updike was dead, and that he was the only heir to the estate; that no will was ever made, that could be found, and had got himself appointed sole administrator and the whole business was being rapidly disposed of; so much so, that had she been a few days later in starting East, the whole estate would have been settled and closed up, and the bogus heirlet into the exclusive possession of the entire estate. As fortune would have it, when the letter reached East Mr. Updike telegraphed East to friends that they had started, and that his mother had in her possession one of the original copies of the will, which it seems had been made in duplicate. Upon receiving this information her friends East, at once, took steps in the court to stop further proceedings in the matter, until her arrival; and now proceedings have been instituted to set aside all of the previous proceedings and give the rightful heir her estate.

Masquerade at Wadsworth.

A grand masquerade ball was held at Gladding's hall, Wadsworth, Monday evening under the auspices of the Social Dancing Club, for the benefit of the public school. Our correspondent reports as follows: It proved to be the most enjoyable gathering we have had this season. As a financial success, it far exceeds the most sanguine expectations of its projectors—all joining with a hearty will, both with money and energy, to give education a "boom," showing that while much is being done to train the feet to "trip the mazy dances," the advancement of the intellect is not forgotten or passed lightly by.

We highly commend the trustees for so energetic a nerve to sustain the school in session under a depleted treasury, in which the Social Club joined to turn pleasure with profit. The ladies must not be forgotten, for they, with true American generosity, donated the supper—a most excellent banquet—to the cause, and through the kindness of Mr. Donaldson, the proprietor of the Nevada House, the board was spread in his spacious dining hall to the partakers of the merry party. Mr. Gladding, always ready for a good act, gave the use of his hall free of charge. The musicians too showed the same kindly spirit, in fact all seemed to vie with each other in making the affair one of pleasure and profit, and we are happy to say success crowned their efforts.

The cash receipts amounted to about two hundred and ninety dollars which will make our school children happy for another three months. We must not forget the "White House" of Reno, whose proprietor kindly gave a very handsome vest to the gentleman who should sustain best his assumed character among the masquers. A committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Gregg, Swaine and Herman, awarded the prize to Mr. Samuel Raphael, who assumed the character of "The Girl of the Period." Mr. Raphael, not to be behind, put the vest up at raffle, netting the school fund $25 more. There was a fine display of fine costumes and the characters chosen were all well sustained. Below are given many of the assumed characters with the manner of parties representing them:

This preparation has been applied with great success against the insects that attack the Coffee Plants and would doubtless be as efficacious with the Tea Plants.
